Switch Health and the GTAA are now offering new COVID-19 testing services to departing Toronto Pearson passengers. These tests will provide another protective layer in our globally-acclaimed Healthy Airport program.

Incorporating the learnings of the research study completed this spring with funding from the National Research Council of Canada Industrial Research Assistance Program (NRC IRAP), the GTAA and Switch Health will soon be able to offer tests to departing passengers who require a COVID-19 test prior to travel, as well as community members looking for convenient access to tests. Testing will be offered in both a traditional clinic setting, as well as by drive-through appointment.

Both Switch Health and the GTAA plan to work together to continually adapt to meet and exceed the demands of a rapidly evolving pandemic environment, exploring new innovations to meet the needs of our passengers, employees and the community.

Passengers interested in accessing a test should be directed to torontopearson.com/testing to learn more and make an appointment.

Thank you for your cooperation as we continue to evolve COVID-19 safety protocols and protect the Toronto Pearson workforce.
